

Challenges students with disabilities while entering at HEI (by Kazakova E.I.)

- challenges in the field of training (related to the inability to search information in various sources, process information in different ways, present information to the audience, etc.);
- challenges in the field of choosing the educational and professional path (which profile of the educational program to choose, are there the necessary personal qualities for mastering the selected profile or how to acquire them, will I be successful in the chosen direction of professional activity, etc.);
- challenges in the field of socio-emotional relations (relations in the student group, interpersonal conflicts, relations with teachers, relations in the dormitory with students from villages , etc.):
- challenges in the field of formation and saving of a healthy lifestyle (perception of health as values, various addictions, the ability to overcome the disease, etc.);
- challenges in the field of free time (time management; how to combine training and part-time work, how not to turn leisure into absences from university, etc.).
